Dear Valued Customer:

We are now a few weeks into this unprecedented crisis and we feel you deserve an update with how Swavelle and our subsidiaries are operating during this time.

Our business remains open. We have continued to take precautions based on recommendations from the CDC. Our supply chain has been affected by this crisis as the country of India is completely shut down. We do have plenty of stock, customer service is available, as are your sales representatives.

Our NY office is officially closed and will remain closed, as long as NY State is under a Stay at Home order. We are fully operational remotely.

Our South Carolina warehouse continues to be open, stocked with yardage and memos, which are ready to ship. We are running with a limited staff due to so many of our customers being closed. But we are staffed with customer service, shipping, sample dept, and anything else you may need.

Our NJ weaving mill received an exemption from the Governor of New Jersey's office to remain open. We have been working very hard to weave PPE (Personal Protective Equipment) to fill the national shortage of facemasks and gowns. We have successfully received passing test results for Barrier Level I, II, and III and are now stocking up on yarns to begin production. We expect to be weaving PPE fabric this week. If you are interested in cut + sewing for the shortage, please contact us.

Our sales associates continue to be available to meet with you via video, web or audio conferencing.

We will continue to update you on this everchanging situation as it evolves. Most importantly, please continue to stay safe and healthy.

Best regards,

Greg Thomases
Vice President
